A Gallery as a Space for Social Mobility.

Talented alumni featured at the Benjamin J. Dineen III & Dennis C. Hull Gallery and at the Art Concourse at the North Hudson Campus.

In the HCCC galleries, each program, exhibit, and artwork carries a social responsibility. The Galleries serve as a classroom with no walls within a learning neighborhood.

www.hccc.edu

To create a space for social mobility:

Does the gallery provide opportunities to build social capital by getting people involved?

Does the event increase the visitor's social network with community building opportunities?

Does the exhibit increase a sense of collective identity and communal pride?

Does the program promote cultural diversity?

Does the workshop increase opportunities for self expression and enjoyment?

Does the audience engage with others to communicate ideas?

Does the lecture improve human capital by increasing skills?

ARTIST TALK

with artists:

"ACCEPTANCE"

Acceptance. A word we don't put into action. Probably don't respect but don't see it, we probably will, but don't even catch it. We stay there. We're on a dead but never go back and check outside, and make our action. Things come to us, but we're not ready to take it. It's not an error to be specific, anytime to one another we can realize. The reason we can't be in each other's lives. Acceptance, bring back love, tolerance, progress, dignity. But our only acceptance, we have our. Relationships, we want to establish the bridges and toward. That's the reason. People want, love, and peace. We don't want people are how they are due to experiences. If we take the time and focus on differences, we can make the world better with acceptance. We have to speak on acceptance, but we don't want to make and see other changes, but we have to make changes that we realize of. We can't ignore it. It's time to stop looking on the bad parts of humanity and come together - and speak to us, with the love that we have. You don't love or about the other.

WAVES OF CHANGE

Benjamin J. Dineen III & Dennis C. Hull Gallery transforms into a center for social change. Contemporary Peacemakers: Waves of Change takes inspiration from Regine Michelle Jean-Louis', A Trumpet of Conscience for the 21st Century: King's Call to Justice. Jean-Charles examines the influence of Martin Luther King's 50-year speeches on American social movements. HCCC celebrates Dr. King's activism through historical documents, the arts, and community projects in the Benjamin J. Dineen III and Dennis C. Hull Gallery. The exhibit timeline begins with King's legendary visit to Jersey City and archives other social change throughout the decades, ending with the Black Lives Matter movement and Tamika Palmer's virtual event which took place in the gallery in February 2021. Her highlights include an interactive word play created by the Poetry and Language Collective, NJ Reentry Program original works of art, a digital mural by the PACDEI Student Action Group, and an ever-changing food station sculpture sponsored by Gaya Foods. Community partners include HCCC, PACDEI Student Action Group, Gaya Foods, the Jersey State Museum of Jersey City History, the African Mason Society of McNair High School, the NJ Reentry Program, HCCC Foundation Collection, and the HCCC Poetry and Language Collective, among others.

Call for Submissions

The quality of light by which we scrutinize our lives has direct bearing upon the product which we live, and upon the changes which we hope to bring about through those lives. It is within this light that we form those ideas by which we pursue our magic and make it realized. This is poetry as illumination, for it is through poetry that we give name to those ideas which are — until the poem — nameless and formless, about to be birthed, but already felt.

— Audre Lorde
